MOSCOW, April 3, 1944.

NO. 108

No. 108. Soviet newspapers April 2nd published Tass news of Ulan-Bator reporting that Cossack families from Altai district, resisting forcible evacuation by Sinkiang authorities to Southern Sinkiang, had fled into Mongolia Republic, whence they were pursued by Chinese troops and Chinese aeroplanes. Message states that in Mongolia Government circles they are convinced that, if further similar infringements of frontier occur, the Soviet Government will be forced to help Mongolia Republic in accordance with Mutual Aid Treaty of March 12th, 1936.
